This is especially important for making changes to images for the web, because a web browser's cache generally can't remember files more than a few days, which doesn't make much sense when you consider how long a web page has to load.

NEW YORK (Reuters) - Exxon Mobil Corp XOM.N reported a 68% rise in quarterly profit on Wednesday as its exploration and production unit benefited from higher prices and strong oil production in mature fields. FILE PHOTO - The company logo of ExxonMobil Corporation is displayed on a screen on the floor of the New York Stock Exchange (NYSE) in New York, U.S., September 30, 2016.

REUTERS/Brendan McDermid The world's largest publicly traded oil company said higher oil prices had boosted the North American oil shale and Canadian oil sands and was starting to boost Saudi Arabian oil production. Exxon's stronger production in mature oil fields came in stark contrast to rival Chevron Corp CVX.N, which was the top dog of the world's biggest oil companies in 2016 with 5.5 million barrels per day of production in mature fields, according to the U.S. Energy Information Administration. Exxon, which had been on pace for a 19.7% decline in adjusted profit, beat analysts' estimates by $1.54 per share, sending its shares up 2.7%. "Oil prices may have hit a bottom, but they're still too low compared to other commodities," Adam L. Brown, president of ExxonMobil's refining and marketing unit, said in a presentation to analysts. "We expect to see an upswing in activity as we bring assets to market." The unit reported $5.8 billion in net income, compared with a year-ago figure of $1.8 billion, as average oil prices per barrel rose nearly 60% in the quarter. Profits at the U.S. refiner also rose, but came in line with analysts' expectations, helped by favorable results from its exploration and production unit. North America's resurgent oil industry - including the efforts by the United States to boost production - has come at a time when U.S. oil prices are lower than they have been since 2014. [O/R] But it is starting to give way to other regions as U.S. production outgrows imports. Exxon booked higher crude-oil and natural gas liquids (NGLs) sales because of higher prices, but they were well below a record $113.2 billion in the fourth quarter of 2015. In May, Exxon said it plans to sell its natural gas liquids-tr
